Backstory / superpower

David has the power to manipulate the timeline, which he is learning from a book. His future self told him about the book, one night at 3 am.

TIME TRAVELLING

A Mayan Oracle had a book that described how time worked and how to use it like water. The book seemed like a fictional fairy tale. The concept of time traveling described is that everything happens at the same time, at a fixed point. What will happen, has already happened. There is no risk of a paradox, whatever happens, has already happened.

David starts reading the book to learn how to time travel. Like any other skill, it requires time and practice to master. In the beginning, he manages to “feel” the past/future. Then he starts having dreams about exact events in the past/future. Then he has flashes during the day. Then he starts trying to move his entire body into the past/future. However, he cannot focus on a specific point in time. The result is that he “blinks” into another point. He cannot maintain the connection, so he jumps back to where he is.
